For larger skeletal discrepancies, the method of all Steiner would not be effective for treatment. 12. Analysis of during; skeletal reference planes 15. This angle gives the clinic an indication mandulum (pogonion) in sagittal direction. If the proportion is 2: 1, it means that the lower incisors are more strictly compared to the prominence of the chin. Down felt that there are four types of faces as seen in the side profile. 132. $\angle \epsilon \epsilon \epsilon, -\epsilon$ This does not take into account the vertical distance of the jaws, which if they decrease, place the most previous mandulum. Downs to provide an evaluation of the anteroposterior position of the chin in relation to the horizontal plane of Frankfort. 162. Retrognathial Facial Type (Recessive Chin) Orthognathic Facial Type (Profile of Straight Profile Normal Chin) 9. 26. Skelético: AnB Angle 40. Upper Lip The previous point of the upper lip, The inspection of the horizontal planes for this patient makes it clear that the maxilla is then turned down and the jaw turned down above. The lower angle suggests: the previous growth of the system of less than 396; the high angle predicts: vertical growth and limited sum of the chin advance plus 396; the norm for the sum of the Angle $S + AR + IS$ is: 396; 167. RAMUS Height 44 Å. ± 5 mm 9. Ricketts and plans points n BA 88. Dental: incisive: incisor of occlusal plane angle. flat angle Occlusal relates the lower incisors to its operating surface on the occlusal plane. $\angle \epsilon \epsilon \epsilon$ To determine with precision the relative anteroposter position of the incisors, it is necessary to measure the distance from the most lipstick of the incisor to the NA line. (Condilition: The most posterouperior point in the contour of the mandibular condire. 107. If the maxilla turned down, a long twice, an angle of acute gonial and would allow normal facial proportions and normal occlusion. Cephalometric analysis Dr. Abbas Naseem B.D.S 2. Facial Axle angle remains stable in growth normally normally or reduce a little. 148. $\angle \epsilon \epsilon, -\epsilon$ The length of the maxillary unit is measured from the posterior edge of the mandibular condyl to the above nasal spine. Steiner Skelishery (1953) Skelysis (Sagittal) SNA SNB Skelysis of ANB (Vertical) Language Mandibular Plane (SN-Mand) Y Axis Y (with SN) dental analysis IL-NA \angle angle UI-NA distance LI-nb LI-NB Distance Impa LI-FH Pog-NB Distance 34. Patients Physical Age 2. This is due Mainly the type of movement of the incisor forward or towards Care. It represents an estimate of the difficulty in obtaining the correct axial relationship and the incisor relationship by using orthodontic therapy. 11. IMPA (incisor mandibular angle) $\angle \epsilon \epsilon, -\epsilon$ indicates that the vertical position of the mandibular incisor is normal $\angle \epsilon \epsilon, -\epsilon$ Balance and harmony of the lower facial average: 87 degrees Profile 63. Cranial dimensions: $\angle \epsilon \epsilon \epsilon$ If both the maxillary lengths and the mandibulars are normal, but the cranial base is long, the maxilla will be transported in relation to the jaw and the maxillary protrusion will result. The negative angle is associated with the prognathic profile. Bottom facial height 5. 84. 42. Although the facial pattern varied from orthodontic treatment. Dental: IMPA (incisor mandibular flat angle) The angle is positive when incisors lean forward. Holdway; To evaluate the relative prominence of mandibular incisors, compared with the sizes of the chin Skeleton: SNA to Nesgulo SNA is used for Evaluar La Posición Anteroposterior del Maxillary in the previous cranial base. This is It increases with age and corals with maxillary length. Analysis of Ricketts (1979) 8. Summary (Steiner Analysis) 55. 139. Facial depth angle. The lower rear angle formed by the intersection of the horizontal Frankfort and the facial plane (N-POG). A point located in the center and most of the lower aspects of the sigmoid notch of the Ramus of the mandulum. This linear measurement relates the position of the tip of the central incisive lower than the maxillomandibular relationship. Subsequent cranial base - Ramus height According to Jarabak, a proportion of 3: 4+ indicates a good vertical growth of the face. The high angle indicates: a projection lets ahead of the symfsis. 5. Ricketts measurements To determine convexity 6. 119. In cases where incisors are very disturbed, the bass recommended the drawing of the occlusal plane through superimposed cits of premature and molars. Mandibular Superposition $\angle \epsilon \epsilon, -\epsilon$ Mandibular overlapping is in the hyphysis of the mandulum along the lower edge. This allows severcyhacial patterns to remain unchanged to maturity. $\angle \epsilon \epsilon \sim \angle \epsilon$ Angulo Menos de 22: puede verse en la Clase II DIV II. If point A is ahead of the vertical line, the measurement will be positive. (Dolorcofacial pattern with weak musculature and prone to the skeletal open bite) The low values of the angle are suggestive horizontal facial pattern. Facial axis link 2. 103. 170. Anomional dialing Notch 161. The depth of the amended mandibular notch as an indicator of the potential for mandibular growth. The advantage of angular measurements is that they are not unfortunate by the magnification of the image or the patient's size. Lower (near): $\angle \epsilon \epsilon, \angle \epsilon \epsilon$ favors the mandibular prognathism $\angle \epsilon \epsilon \angle \epsilon \epsilon$ more the sagittal projection of the henefisis during growth. JAWS A The Cranial Base Analysis of McNamara Elements of previous approaches (RICKETTS and HARVOLD) with original measurements to try a more accurate definition of the positions of the jaw and teeth. A point located at the Ramus geometric center. Overlays the Bolton Template on the patient's wray This overlapping indicates that the patient's jaw is longer than the ideal, but the Ramus is lower and tilted later. 137. Dental: Protrusion of maxillary incisors Reading is positive if the incisal edge is ahead of the point A Pogonion and indicates the amount of maxilla dental protrusion. 4. Facial axis of Ricketts (BA-N - PT-GN) The lower angle formed by the intersection of the Ricketts facial axis and the BA-N line. The high angle indicates: inclination down and tendency to an open bite. $\angle \epsilon \epsilon, \angle \epsilon$ Even Thus, this approach can not distinguish the skeletal discrepancies of the problems caused $\angle \epsilon \epsilon$
